

Chris McCollor

SC Board Member, SECOME

Southern New Hampshire University

Chris is currently responsible for oversight of Southern New Hampshire University military initiatives from Maryland to South Carolina. He also serves military communities in Ohio and Alabama. Chris retired in October 2014 after 30 years active duty service with the United States Air Force.

He began his Air Force career as a Personnel Specialist serving in positions of ascending responsibility including Military Personnel Flight Superintendent, Major Command Enlisted Assignments Director, Mission Support Group Superintendent, and culminating as numbered-Air Force equivalent Command Chief Master Sergeant. Chris graduated from every level of Air Force Enlisted Professional Military Education and holds degrees from Husson University, the Community College of the Air Force, and Southern New Hampshire University.

Chris is married to his High School sweetheart, Nancy. Together they have one daughter, Erika. They enjoy traveling, walking, reading, and sporting events.